CHEERLESS FOR STRIKERS.

Dry Brend and Herrings Is the Thanksgiving Meal. This is a sad Thanksgiving Day for striking cloakmakers and their families.

Fully 2,000 men have been out of work when a reporter for "The Evening World" visited the dingy basement of Walhalia Hall, in Orchard street, this Walhalla Hall, in Orchard street, this morning he saw 300 men there. Some were eating dry bread. An old woman with a basket full of bread and sausage was trying to make a few cents, but even copper coins were scarce among the cloakmakers.

"What are you going to have for a Thanksgiving dinner?" asked the reporter of Joseph Podowsky, the spokesman.

"Bread and herrings will be the bill of fare for most of the strikers and their man.

"Bread and herrings will be the bill of fare for most of the strikers and their families to-day," was the answer. "The children will march up to Taylor's rooms, at 163 West Pourteenth street, at 1 o'clock and will have a good dinner. But we and our wives must take bread and herrings. About 500 families received a little coffee and sugar and bread yesterday from the relief depot in Ludiow street. This will last until to-morrow. God only knows what we will do then, for there is no money left in the treasury and no more supplies in the depot. Secretary Bernstein paid out 500 yesterday to men threatened with eviction, but 500 don't go a great way among 2,000 striking men."

The crowds were not as boisterous and as enthusiastic as most football throngs, and the expression: "What a shame that Yale should have deprived New York of its usual Thanksgiving Day game," was frequently heard There could be no doubt that there was considerable feeling against Yale for its action regarding the game here.

The colors of the two co...eges, which are to do battle this afternoon were displayed conspicuously by the people bound of or the game, and followers of the two seemed about equalty divided. The crimans of the red and blue of the United Section of the indicable features was the large number of young and pretty girls. orders have been issued for any war vessels of the British Navy to go there.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—The action of Great Britain with reference to the Mosquito territory has aroused some inquiry relative to the status of the pending Nicaragua Canal bills. Both provide for an issue of $70,000,000 worth of bonds, the payment of which is to be assured by the Government. Ahe Senate bill was introduced by Senator Morgan, Chairman of the Committee on Foreign Relations, and the House bill by Representative Mallory, of Florida, of the Committee on Interstate Commerce. Both bills have been reported from committee, out neither has had any consideration in either the Senate or the House. It is generally understood that there will be an effort to secure consideration during the coming session.

On board the New York, which is moored at Dock No. 2, it was said that no sailing orders had been received, and officers of the other cruisers said the same thing.

Among gas consumers in Brooklyn it is believed that the action in increasing the price from 90 cents per cubic 1,000 feet to the statutory price of $1.5 is the first step towards the formation of a Gas Trust, as told in "The Evening World" last night. The consumers, however, have discovered a new patented burner, which is said to increase the candle power of the light by a factor of 2 and to decrease the amount of gas consumed to one-half. Some say that the new burners had as much to do with the increase of the price as anything else.
